lyn to Parade.

Many Banquets and Entertainments to Be Held To-Night.

Washington's Birthday is being observed by all patriotic New Yorkers in a quiet way. It is a day of rest for the tollers, a day of quiet in the busy marts of the city. All public offices, National, State and municipal, are closed; the exchanges, the markets, all the wholesale stores and most of the retail establishments are closed, and the looms in the mills, the lathes in the shops and other The starry flag floats from the peaks of the City Hall, Post-Office, Custom-House and a thousand private buildings. The downtown streets are almost described, while uptown thoroughfares are filled with people in holiday dress.

Many parades, drills, meetings, social atherings, receptions banquets and alls have been planned for the day and balls have been planned for the day and evening to give expression to the participants, and these programmes are being carried out in all parts of New York, Brooklyn and the rest of the metropolis.

Old Glory was raised, in accordance with immemorable custom, at Battery Park at sunrise. Christopher R. Forbes, great-grandson of Capt. John Van Aradale, the Revolutionary hero, performed that honorable service, surrounded by representatives of several organizations, and a lob-gun salute was fired at the same moment on Fort Greene, Brooklyn, by Stephenson Post, Grand Army of the Republic.

At daybreak, Capt. John G. Norman, supported by the Washington Continental Guard, descendants of the heroes of 1775 and 1812, gave the Stars and Stripes to the crisp breezes and the bright February sun on the block-house in Central Park. The Pequod Club of Tammany braves also participated. The motto of the Washington Continentals is "We Love Our Country," and that of the Pequods is "We Love Those Who love Our Country."

Among the New York exempts were heir President, Commissioner of Jurors tohert B. Nooney; Larry Dalton, of Vashington Market; Peter J. Hickey, arry Marley, the oysterman; John Tanleman, three times Mayor of Hoboken; Peter Masterson, Tim Donovan, the reat real estate operator; Jim McVey, if the Post-Office Registry Department; dartle Keese, keeper of the City Hall; have Pioneer, of the United States Court quid, and last but not least, Harry quid, and last but not least, Harry ioward, the venerable chief of the old-lime Volunteer Fire Department.

There are 198 members in the Mount Jernon Exempt Firemen's Association, and 80 of them came on from New York's coungest sister city to Join in the celevation. Their President is William A. Anderson, and among the members presture of the scale of the City Clerk Elias cration. Their President is William A. Anderson, and among the members present were ex-Chief, now City Clerk Elias Pease, City Marshal Martin J. Bennett, assessor John H. Cordes and Fire Commissioner Frank Bruce.

Their uniform is similar to that of the New York men, a tan-colored overcoat, olive trousers, red shirt and cone helmet. The programme for the day called for their return to New York at 2 o'clock for dinner at the Everett Hotel, the amount of the New York at 2 o'clock for dinner at the Everett Hotel, the continue of the Evening World' dined the newsboys one Christmas Day and Albani sang to them.

They were formally discharged until Monday next. Talk with some of the jurors developed the fact that the jury stood seven for acquittal to five for conviction. That was the status when they took their first ballot last night, and, although they took innumeral... ballots, there was no change in the opinions of the jurors.

Hall in $25,000 was renewed by Mr. Blaut and he left the Court-House extremely elated. His lawyer, Mr. Lautenbach, could not say if Mr. Blaut would be retried on the same charge.

Quoting the prisoner's own words, Blaut "didn't tleep much last night." He was taken from the Tombs by Deputy Sheriff Brown at 10.15 o'clock, and was joined in the Court of Oyer and Terminar by his brother-in-law, Frederick Uhimann, of the new East River Bridge Company, and Lawyers Edward Lauterbach and Jacob Fromme, his attorneys.

The prisoner looked extremely wearied and was palpably anxious as to the outcome of the jury's all-night deliberation. He inquired of the newspaper men if they had heard anything from the jury chamber. Blaut said he looked for an acquittal, inasmuch as the jury had remained out so long.

The brothers are said to be worth $14.000,000. Louis was in his sixty-sixth year. He and his eccentric brother have been inseparable since boyhood. He died while sitting upon a settee, fully dressed, in the parlor of the cottage.

Richard would not believe he was dead, and said he would not allow the body to be buried until after four days had elapsed. He felt sure his brother Louis would return to life. The bursting of a blood vessel, caused by a violent attack of asthma, is declared by the physicians to have been the cause of death.

The Wistar brothers were bachelors. They have vast estates in Philadelphia and other parts of Pennsylvania. They were eccentric as to their wearing appares, and wore their clothes until threadbare, but in spending money upon their friends they were liberal. Louis Wistar's share of the estate is valued at $8,000,000.
